Conferences and Calls for Papers

Special Issue of Atlantis on unpaid work

Atlantis: A Women's Studies Journal, is looking for submissions for an upcoming special issue on unpaid work. Guest editors include Kate Bezanson (Brock University), Meg Luxton (York University), Isabella Bakker (York University), Katherine Side (Mt. Saint Vincent University), Evelyn Drescher, and Kathryn Spracklin. The international women's movement has been active for decades, trying to get women's unpaid work recognized and valued by international agencies, national governments, policy analysts, social movement activists, and families. This issue will explore a range of perspectives on unpaid work from discussions about what the work involves, reports from activists about what has happened to date and what still needs doing, to analyses of the policy implications of recognizing and valuing unpaid work. Atlantis is an interdisciplinary journal devoted to critical and creative writing in English or French on the topic of women. Submissions may include scholarly articles, poetry, creative writing, visual art, interviews, and any other relevant forms. For more information see: www.MSVU.ca/atlantis or contact Cecily Barrie, Managing Editor, at the Institute for the Study of Women, Mount Saint Vincent University, Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada B3M 2J6. Deadline for submissions is February 28, 2003.

Sexuality Research Fellowships, Social Science Research Council.

The Sexuality Research Fellowship provides dissertation and postdoctoral support for social and behavioral research on sexuality. It is intended for scholars conducting research in the United States. Because the Program is designed to provide training experience, only joint fellowship applications will be considered from the applicant and the research advisor or associate who will be required to function in a mentoring capacity. Applications are invited from a wide range of disciplines, including but not limited to: anthropology, demography, economics, education, ethics, history, cultural and women's studies, political science, psychology and sociology. Applications from other fields, such as nursing, law and clinical/social work, are welcome as long as they are grounded in social science theory and methodology. Joint applications from researchers in the social and biological or physical sciences will also be considered. Deadline for Applications: December 16, 2002. <http://www.ssrc.org/fellowships/sexuality/>. For further information, see the Website or e-mail: srfp@ssrc.org.

Fulbright Senior Specialist Program

Fulbright has a new Senior Specialist Program with a roster of US specialists who can be requested for various projects in other countries for a minimum of two weeks to six weeks. For someone in gender studies/women studies, the field is sociology and social work, the area is ethnic and cultural minorities—gender studies/women's studies. The program covers travel costs and a $200 per day honorarium for the specialist. Per diem costs, which are in-country costs for lodging, meals and in-country transportation, must be covered by the host institution.
